A Lucky Escape.

The Central engine house was telephoned at 11:25 last night that there was a fire " in Johnson's building the man on watch keyed in Box 17, which should have been Box 15. "Silence" Jordan, the auction-crier, first discovered the fire, which was in F. C. Goode's law office, second floor of Bacon's building-He awoke O. B. Johnson, who sleeps in a room above, and the department was called. The fire started from the flue and burned through into the hall in the third story, making a hole in the wall and one in the floor of the hall, the heat breaking some of the glass The chemical extinguisher only was used in putting out the flames, which caused not to exceed $100 loss, covered by insurance in Hosterman's agency. Mr. Goode considers it, on the whole, rather a lucky fire. None of his books, papers or furniture were damaged. The liquid from the chemical engine soaked through and slightly damaged the paper frescoes and one chandelier in the Gas Company's office on the first floor, but the

Council met in regular session last night, with President Johnson in the cheir. Present: Messrs. Cogley, Funk, Jennings, Kershner, Korn, Lessner, Mitchell, Petticrew, Prince, Stephan, Mast.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mr. Funk presented a petition from business men of this city, stating that there is no city of the same size in the United States that permits the vending and selling of truit, fish, etc., without liceuse, and asking that a liceuse be required for such sale. Referred to the Commit ce on Health.

Bills were presented and referred. The city solicitor presented an ordinance providing for a special assessment on the benefited property for certain improvements therein designated. This assessment is to be paid to certain cont actors for paving and guttering in front of said property. Adopted.

The solicitor presented a report stating that the Yellow Springs and Muddy Run turnpike company demanded compensation for the appropriation of so much of said turnpike as was included in the city limits by annexation. and offered a resolution that Hon. John H. Littler be requested to procure the passage of a bill requiring Clark county to pay any such judgment which may be rendered against the city. Adopted.

The solicitor presented, by request of Mayor Constantine, an ordinance to regulate the cleaning of streets, alleys and public grounds and to cause the same to be kept free from nuisance. This provides for the notification of property owners to clean the streets abutting on their property. First reading.

By Mr. Pettierew, from the Committee on Streets and Highways, an ordinance for the payment of bills amounting to $81.39. Adopted.

By Mr. Jennings, of the Police Committee. an ordinance for the payment of bills amounting to 521.10. Adopted.

By Mr. Kore, of the Committee on Claims, an ordinance for the payment of sundry bills amounting to $77.55. Adopted.

The clerk presented a petition from the Bushnell Guards, asking that a suitable armory be provided for them. Referred to the Committee on Public Buildings.

The clerk presented an application from E. C. Jackson for the position of assistant sanitary mershal. Mr. Mast moved that, in order to settle this question, it i inexpedient to appoint another sanitary marshal Adopted.

By Mr. Lessner-A resolution that $36 be set aside for the purchase of an automatic bank punch for use in the City Clerk's office. The motion failed for want of a second.

By the same, a resolution that the Committee on Finance he authorized to settle claim of Jos. Balan against the rity at a sum not exceeding $366 it in the judy ment of the rommitter the states is a very over. This was smended of each ny me words france. to the approval of Chaire L. It was a so amended by strik ag out the $300, and leaving the smooth subject to Count J. The word "investigate" was also substituted for the word "settle." George Alfred Townsend in the Role of a Doubting Thomas - Ris Lecture a Black's Opera House Last Night.

The best lecture audience of the season was within Black's opera house last evening and heard with much pleasure and, each according to his capacity, some profit "Gath's" talk, in prose and poesy, on some of our great men who have helped to make American history. Speaking on behalf of the Y. M. L. S. of his congregation, Rev. Dr. Falconer, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, introduced the gentleman, connecting with the title he was born to those of "popular, versatile and ubiquitous," saving that he had written with ability on every subject excepting missions, and now came before us to speak under the auspices of a missionary organization and help along the cause in that manner. The doctor spoke briefly of mission work, and presented the speaker of the evening. Mr. Townsend rests his manuscript on a draped stand, breast-high, behind or beside which he takes position. A student lamp completes the outfit. George would have us believe he is only 42 years old and gets himself up faultlessly, in full evening dress, to carry out the deception. While not an orator he is a good speaker and at home in presence of an audience-of his Ohio constituents,

"Gath" says that the same sentiment which ectuated Thomas, the disciple, in refusing to belive until he saw and placed his hand in his Lord's wounds, were his, in early life, in his desire to know intimately of the inner life of our lordly men. The result of a wide course of reading, personal intercourse with those who had known them and in some cases personal acquaintance of his own was given in the points of character and daily life of each of our Presidents, from Washington to Buchannan. Those of a later day and generation he considers too much of us yet to admit of such attention without danger of touching sensitive party feelings. It was all vastly entertaining and nobody was under obligations to accept Gath's estimates if not so disposed. None excepted to his mention of Buchanan as the most successful-failure, spoiled for a couple our of Irish-American citizens by his reference to some of the personal habits of Washington in his earlier career. In poetic measures, closing his discourse, Mr. Townsent paid tribute to defeated candidates for the Presidency. The names of Clay and Blaine were vigorously applauded and Hancock but little less so. To the memory of the lamented Greeley was paid the most delicate tribute; touching in its just comprehension of his character.

People in the rear of the house were greatly listurbed by the conduct of some ill-mannered youths in the area back of the railing and there was much complaint because of it. It Johnson's cigar store." Understanding it for should be somebody's duty to preserve order

A!Plea for Wooden Shoes.

If the merits of wooden shoes were better known, they would much more universally be used, especially on the farm, says a writer in the Milwaukee Wisconsin. At a first glance those having used them would think them clumsy, hard on the feet, and very cold in the winter, but after a fair trial your readers would be well pleased with them. At least that has been my experience. I can highly recommend them to all farmers and dairymen. They are most valuable, and do excelent service along in the winter and pring, when the ground is continually freezing and thawing and it is muddy most of the time. It is then that they are far superior to leather boots and shoes, for the leather will soak up water and make the feet wet, and the will be hard to get on and off, while wooden shoes keep the feet dry and warm in the coldest weather. When the chores are done it is a simple matter to step out of the shoes and into a pair of slippers. It seemed strange to me, when I first saw them, that they could be used at all in the winter, for he back part of the shoes was open, as they all are, and I thought this would let the cold air in all around the foot; but by using them a short time I was delighted with the way they kept my feet warm and comfortable.

Of course we all know that wood is a very poor conductor of heat and cold, and for this reason wooden shoes are much warmer than wooden ones. I had an idea. however, at first, that the of the age. The pleasure of the lecture was heel would almost freeze in cold weather, but two pair of socks kept them warm during the coldest weather we have had. It would be a good plan to take a pair of old boots and cut off the eet, and then tack the tops around the opening on a pair of wooden shoes, as this would keep the ankle warmer and more comfortable.

Besides this they are very economic al, being much cheaper and lasting longer than leather boots and shoes.

Animal Stories.

A Newfoundland dog, belonging to a gentleman of this city, fell overboard a few nights since as the narrow-gauge ferry-boat was coming into the slip on the Boston side. The night was very dark, and as nothing could be heard or seen of the animal after it dropped into the water the owner gave it up as lost. Next morning the dog appeared at his door uninjured, and it has been ascertained that, after falling overboard, the animal swam across the stream, landed at Kelly's Marine railway on the East Boston side, and thence made his way home by the East Boston ferry. -Boston

The most sagacious sheep in North Carolina is an old ram that belongs to J. A. Adock, in Sand Creek township. He can not only distinguish the persimmon trees from trees of other growth in the pasture, but has learned how to get the fruit down from them. This he a suitable distance, stands on his hind legs, as if in the attitude of fighting. and strikes the tree a violent blow with his head. When he has shaken the persimmons off, he quietly eats them and goes on his way until his appetite demands more. This wise old ram used to rob the apple trees in the same way.

Henderson (N. C.) Gold Leaf. Mr. Maltbie, of New Haven, had a famous bull terrier. He believed that whatever other men might not safely do, he could toy with that dog. There-fore he pulled the dog's tail, and the animal promptly bit him through the lip. Mr. Maltbie says the dog did not mean to hurt him, but he took him out in the yard and tied him up. "Then. says Mr. Maltbie, "I fired four or five shots into him without being able to kill him. Then my man fired at him, and finally we had to chloroform him to put an end to him. I never saw a dog die so hard, and he was so brave about it. He never moaned or cried a particle. I was sorry then the made up my mind to kill him. But he had been getting cross, and wa feared to keep him any longer."-New Haven Palladium.

Catching a Sea Serpent.

A strange adventure to a boat's crew from the whaling bark Alaska in the A ctic Ocean is recounted by the first officer, George Johnson:

On the 16th of last October, when the vessel was forty-six miles south of Alaska, an object was perceived in the distance whose proportions and shape indicated it to be a monster sea lion. A boat was immediately lowered and placed in charge of First Officer Johnson and five of the crew, named Andrew Nelson, William Johnson, Antoine Niaga, George Marshfield, and Hans Stuten. As the distance was decreased be ween the bark and the huge animal they became convinced that it was the sea serpent. When they came within a few hundred yards the monster made a dash for the boat, striking out its immense tail against the craft Several of the occupants were precipitated into the water, but were rescued with difficulty.

A harpoon and lance were fired into the body of the beast, and it disappeared beneath the surface. Half an hour later it reappeared, floating on the wa-It was secured with ropes and towed to the vessel and hoisted on deck. There the capture was seen to be a villainous-looking thing. Its head closely resembled that of a lizard. It measured thirty-three feet in length, the tail alone being nine feet long. The tail was cut off and stuffed and brought to this city, and is now on exhibition. - San Francisco Chronicle.

You have no idea of the annoyance we are put to by exacting and meanspirited customers. I want no better test of a gentleman than the way in which he orders a meal. Table manners always discloses undesirable traits of character which under other circumstances would not be easily discerned. When here by themselves they feel under no social restraint and the way in which they abuse us poor girls is awful. If they only knew it, they could get more and better food by mixing a little politeness with their orders than by commanding us to bring this and that in a dictatorial and insulting way. If a man is crabbed, cross, and bent on finding fault. I just try to bring him the poorest meal I can, and delight in his fussing. The meanest, most nig-gardly people always want twice as much for their money as decent folks. They come here and with ten or fifteen cents expect to get a fifty-cent meal. They are so unreasonable that they make the girls mad, and you can't

The Fortune Teller's Revenge.

If there is one thing sadder than another in this world it is to see a young man with a buffalo-skin overcoat on sitting on the winter side of a grocery with tears in his eyes and no-thing but a yarn mitten to wipe them away with. Such a case was discovered by a policeman on Grand Ri er avenue yesterday, and when asked the cause of the young man's sorrow the reply was:

Some people have no use for railroads. A middle-aged white man and wife walked into Ackworth. Ga., the other afternoon, to do a little trading. They stated that they left home, a matter of eighty miles away, a little late the same morning, and had walked every step of the way. They said that a fellow was no account that couldn't walk seventy-five miles in a day. The man carried a gun and the woman several articles.
